CHARLES B. WANG COMMUNITY HEALTH CENTER

The Charles B Wang Community Health Center is seeking BC/BE Internal Medicine physicians to join our growing Internal Medicine Service. We are looking for hard working individuals with an interest in primary care in a community health care setting. Proficiency in Mandarin or Cantonese is preferred.

The Internal Medicine service is dedicated to providing comprehensive, quality care to the Asian American community of the NYC metropolitan area. We offer our patients an array of services including Mental Health, Nutrition, Health Education and Social Work. Annually, the Internal Medicine Service provides care to 40,000 patients.

Charles B. Wang Community Health Center is a non-profit federally qualified health center with sites in Manhattan and Queens. It is a nationally-recognized leader in Asian American health issues with active research and education divisions. Current research programs are focused on diabetes, hepatitis B, obesity, and depression. The health center is part of the NYU Center for the Study of Asian American Health.

Benefits include competitive salaries with productivity bonuses, malpractice insurance, medical and dental insurance, as well as CME. Our providers have good ancillary support, share in a limited call schedule, and have opportunities to participate in community outreach, medical education, or research. Loan repayment opportunities through the National Health Services Corps may be available.
