About Sandy Lau Bui, D.O.

Dr. Bui is a board-certified doctor specializing in obstetrics and gynecology. She is the Assistant Chief of Obstetrics and Gynecology at the Charles B. Wang Community Health Center in Manhattan and has more than 12 years' experience.

She provides obstetrics and gynecological care, including annual gynecological exams, family planning, prenatal and postnatal care, STD testing and treatment, cancer screening, and diagnosis and management of gynecological issues.

Dr. Bui is also a clinical instructor at NYP-Weill Cornell. She is committed to improving women's health, from young to old, as they transition through pregnancy and menopause. She believes that early prevention and detection are key to long-term wellness.

Dr. Bui has three children and one guinea pig, Oreo. She enjoys reading science fiction and fantasy, baking cakes with her daughter, and playing basketball with her son.
