About Angela Mei Chan, M.D.

Dr. Chan is a board-certified pediatrician specializing in developmental behavioral pediatrics. She has more than 30 years' experience.

Dr. Chan provides expert specialty care beyond the primary care doctor's management of patient conditions to those up to 21 years of age. As a developmental behaviorist, Dr. Chan also evaluates and treats children with suspected developmental delays, autism spectrum disorders, behavioral challenges, learning disabilities, and attention deficits.

She is highly engaged in the field and is an active member of the American Academy of Pediatrics, the Chinese American Medical Society, and the Society of Developmental and Behavioral Pediatrics.
