About Samuel Wong, M.D.

Dr. Wong is a board-certified obstetrician and the Chief of Obstetrics & Gynecology at the Charles B. Wang Community Health Center in Queens. He has more than 20 years' experience.

Dr. Wong provides obstetrics and gynecological care through diagnosis and treatment of gynecological issues as well as breast, cervical, and colorectal cancer screening. Dr. Wong also provides family planning and reproductive health services, prenatal and postpartum care, delivery, and more.

He practices both the science and art of medicine, advocating for patients, being committed to improving clinical knowledge, and most importantly, maintaining one's own health and happiness.

When not working, Dr. Wong loves to travel to expose himself to diversity. These experiences have aided him in working with a diverse patient population and team of physicians. As an immigrant himself, Dr. Wong feels that patient care and relief of patient suffering and illness go beyond the patient's native language and culture.
